In fact, I'd venture to say that there were very few businesses that most 50+ year old's could successfully pursue. Most are very specialized and/or require licenses that can be challenging to get. For instance, Handyman in my state requires a contractor's license. A friend who is in that business struggles to make ends meet. The chapter talks about plumbing and electrical work which require an apprenticeship and special license here. Home Inspector requires a license and a good attorney because lawsuits aren't uncommon when the item you missed causes the new home owner problems. I could go on with most of the 'home based businesses'... most aren't really practical for someone just starting out. 70 of 71 people found the following review helpful. Lots of good ideas

By M. Edwards
After surviving a bout with cancer in the Spring of '06 and a heart attack in the Fall, my church (I'm a minister) decided they could no longer afford to keep me. The problem was that I was 2 years short of being old enough to collect Medicare and no way was I going to be able to live on my paltry SSA. THIS BOOK LITERALLY SAVED MY LIFE. It showed me that there is life after the fall, and it helped me to get back on my feet. I don't earn a LOT of money, but I'm doing better than the near-minimum wage I would have gotten flipping hamburgers at a fast food joint or working at Wal-Mart. In my opinion, there's something for just about everyone in this book--providing, of course, you really WANT to work.

The version I purchased is nn is older one, but it is full of good ideas and resources. Might be worth ordering the newest version if it your primary resource.

For the fastest-growing segment of our population, here is a comprehensive guide to starting and running a home-based business in midlife and retirement. A baby boomer turns fifty every seven seconds, creating what will soon be the largest and most influential senior generation in history. These dynamic seniors have both a desire and a need to continue their working lives past the age when their parents retired. Boomers have been the primary buyers of more than one million self-employment guides by Paul and Sarah Edwards--and they now have the perfect handbook to take them into the second half of life. The Best Home Businesses for People 50+ features seventy comprehensive profiles that show how to select, start, run, and build a home-based business suited to the needs, talents, and ideals of the over-fifty generation. Each business listing--for careers ranging in diversity from Makeup Artist to Tax Preparer to Information Broker--addresses the concerns of boomers and seniors, including:- Businesses that people 50+ can continue working in for 10-15 years.- Businesses that supplement your retirement income.- Businesses adaptable to a wide variety of locations.- Businesses with flexible hours to allow for family, travel, and other priorities.- Businesses suited to a broad range of health and wellness needs. Profiles of successful business owners and a treasury of online and easy-to-access resources round out The Best Home Businesses for People 50+ to create an indispensable resource for this new generation of career-oriented seniors.

The Best Home Businesses for People 50+ was a Book-of-the-Month Club selection. "For those who take the "my way" approach to work life instead of the "bye way," the Edwards' new book is a blue print to help boomers bank on a business in the home. It offers information on selecting, starting, running and building a career based on individual needs, talents and ideals specific to the over-50 generation." -- Broderick Perkins, DeadlineNews.com "I sat down to glance and skim through this book and found myself a couple of hours later reading it page by page. The information is presented in a clear no nonsense way that not only reviews many businesses that would allow working seniors (or anybody for that matter) to create a business but gives some great resources and a virtual roadmap on making it a success." -- Bill Vick, ThePhoenixLink.com
