How to keep a person or team on track and work well with diverse personalities. By definition, a facilitator is a person who makes things easy. But if you sometimes find the role to be tough—mainly because you're a manager, not a professional facilitator—this targeted book provides all the help you need. It teaches you the skills needed to keep a person, group, or team on track, and it shows you how to work well with diverse personalities. Designed for general managers whose time is at a premium, the book presents a six-step process and tools that you can apply in any situation—whether you're facilitating a short-term problem-solving session or a multi-year strategic planning project. You will learn how to: Build commitment and foster a "we" approach Develop effective, time-

saving agendas bull; Deal with equipment and logistics, such as room setup and flip chart techniques bull; Utilize different types of questioning techniques bull; Become an active listener bull; Give better feedback bull; Use tools such as brainstorming and storyboarding bull; Avoid groupthink.
